PRICE THREE CENTS

BENDERSVILLE TO INCREASE WATER SUPPLY

Seeks Permission To Build 200,000 Gallon Reservoir In Upper End.

PROJECT WILL COST ABOUT $3,000

As soon as plans are approved by the state department of health, Bendersville borough will begin construction of a concrete storage reservoir with a capacity of approximately 200,000 gallons, to supplement the present reservoir which has a capacity of only 45,000 gallons. L. W. Kuhn, cashier of the Bendersville National bank and chairman of the borough water committee, announced today.

About $3,000 will be expended in construction of the new reservoir which will be 100 feet long, 40 feet wide and 7 feet deep. For the present, no roof will be placed over the new basin.

Bendersville's water supply is received from large springs in the South Mountains, about two miles away, and is piped to the present reservoir from which the town is supplied by gravity.

The new reservoir will be connected with the present basin by a pipe and the water in both will be maintained at the same level.

An application was received by the state department of health on Monday from the borough of Bendersville, requesting the issuance of a permit by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, approving construction of the concrete reservoir.

The application was given to District Engineer R. C. Gorman for investigation.

An application has been received by the state department of health, from the borough of Littlestown, requesting the issuance of a permit by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, approving an additional source of public water supply for the borough, the same being a drilled well, 150 feet deep, located on the property of Harry A. Parr, Germany township.

Investigation of this well will be made by District Engineer Gorman, with an early recommendation on the subject to Doctor Appel.

REPORT STILL IN BURNED HOME

Emmitsburg Fireman Tells Of Finding Still In Farm House Razed By Fire.

Fire of undetermined origin early Sunday morning destroyed a story and a half log dwelling on the farm of George Slonaker, Breckenridge street, in Liberty township, with loss estimated at between $500 and $800. The property is on a small farm about 2 1/2 miles north of Emmitsburg on the road from the Gettysburg-Emmitsburg road to the Waynesboro 'pike.

Oscar Wolfe, president of the Emmitsburg fire company, which responded to an alarm turned in by Robert McNair, Freedom township, said a still of 500 or 600 gallon capacity was found in the ruins of the summer house, adjoining the property, but Slonaker this morning denied that a still had been in operation there.

Slonaker said Ralph Miller, of Gettysburg, occupied the house until August 13. "I was there the day Miller moved and I didn't see a still on the premises," Slonaker said.

Wolfe said the still apparently had not exploded because it was found intact in the debris after the fire.

Although the fire occurred about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, Slonaker did not learn of the blaze until Monday. He said he carried a small amount of insurance on the place.

WOMAN B. E. F. IS ORDERED OUT

Pleads Guilty To Disorderly Conduct Charge And Ordered Out Of Town.

On her promise given in broken English and voluble French that she would leave Gettysburg and the B. E. F. camp and never return, Mrs. Yvonne Lester, aged about 40 years, and represented as a nurse at the local bonus seekers' camp when it was established here a month ago, was released from the Adams county jail this morning after she pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

Yvonne had plenty to say at the hearing but as her command of English was limited, she often lapsed into her native French and the words fairly flew although no one present understood what she was saying. She admitted she had been drinking at the camp on Monday evening.

Yvonne said she married an American soldier and had been in the United States about eleven years. Troopers W. E. Brandt and William Gressang, of the state police, arrested Mrs. Lester at the B. E. F. camp, Monday evening, on information of Homer Dowler, a member of the camp.

Justice of the Peace John C. Shearer held Mrs. Lester's hearing at the jail, and when the magistrate said he would suspend sentence on her promise to leave Gettysburg forever, the woman was profuse in her thanks. She said she would leave immediately for Washington.

Trooper Brandt said he would see that Yvonne left camp.

Need Money To Combat Blazes

Because the state's fund for fighting forest fires is exhausted, fire wardens have been summoned to Harrisburg to work out emergency plans for the fall fire season.

The wardens will meet with Geo. H. Wirt, chief of the bureau of fire protection, state department of forests and waters.

The 1931 legislature appropriated $200,000 for fighting forest fires during the current biennium. The money, however, was entirely expended in fighting fires last fall and this spring when the weather was extremely dry.

The regular field force of the bureau is expanded by fire fighters hired by the day when the occasion demands. In addition fire towers located on mountain tops are manned by observers during the fire seasons.

You Can't Stop This Hen From Laying an Egg!

After three attempts, a hen belonging to Mrs. C. A. Gain, New Oxford, succeeded in laying an egg.

After a month's absence from home, Mrs. Gain returned to her poultry yard to pet her few hens and to give them some extra mash to celebrate her home-coming.

As she entered the poultry yard, Mrs. Gain was annoyed to find one hen apparently "setting" for she had given her poultry boy instructions before leaving not to let any of the hens hatch.

Mrs. Gain grasped the "offending" hen and placed it in a small enclosure while she went about "greeting" her other "feathered friends."

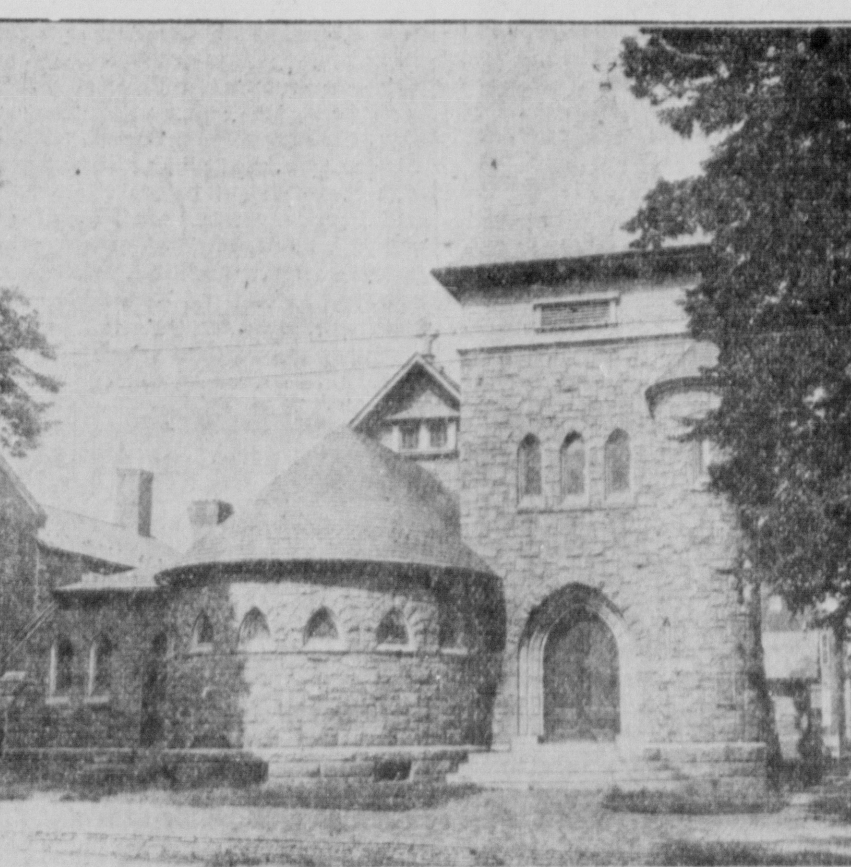

Turning around a minute later, Mrs. Gain found the hen back on the nest from which she had just removed it. A second time she caught the hen and threw it back into the enclosure, but the "biddy" determined flew back to the nest.

By this time Mrs. Gain was not in a "petting" mood. She snatched up the hen and was in the act of throwing it none too gently into the enclosure when she noticed something unusual which caused her to drop the hen.

In its descent, the hen dropped new egg, unbroken, into the pan of mash into which the fowl also landed, looking up at her mistress and only a little less startled than she.

Road Worker Is Crushed To Death

Lawrence Day, colored, was instantly killed Monday morning near Saub's Inn while assisting in road construction work along the new Taneytown state highway in Carroll county. The victim, who was about 26 years of age and formerly resided in Charleston, South Carolina, met death shortly after work commenced at 6:30 o'clock.

The workman's right foot was caught in a moving cement mixer mounted on a caterpillar tractor and he was thrown in the path of the machine. His right leg, his shoulders and skull were crushed.

Just how the accident occurred is not known as there were no witnesses until after the fatality. It is believed, however, that he was reaching for a shovel when he tripped in front of the machine. One of his fellow laborers, Marcellus Andrews, also colored, said he heard him remark a short time previously that he wanted another shovel.

Butt late Monday afternoon after the prosecutor, state police and motor patrolmen spent three hours questioning the Ohio man and eleven of his campmates in connection with the death of George H. Bowers, aged about 40, of Lemoyne, formerly of Martinsburg, West Virginia, in an automobile accident near the Barlow community picnic grounds, Cumberland township, Sunday evening.

Horn Admits Drinking

The hearings were held by Justice of the Peace John C. Shearer in the office of Sheriff John C. Wible, at the jail.

Riley, the first witness, testified that Horn was driving the car when the accident occurred. Questioned by the district attorney, Monday afternoon, Horn said he didn't remember driving the car, but after Riley completed his testimony this morning, Horn stated that he was driving the car at the time, but denied he had been drinking before the accident.

"After the accident," he informed Justice Shearer, "I just went to pieces and after going back to the picnic grounds I took a couple of drinks."

"The accident followed a picnic and 'drinking orgy' at the picnic grounds, the authorities maintain, adding that most of the men were under the influence of liquor when they arrived on the scene."

"All Drinking," Riley

Riley testified that all of the men on the picnic had been drinking, but Sessa declared that he had not taken a drink throughout the afternoon. He said he went to the picnic because he believed there was going to be food there. He was emphatic in his assertion that he does not drink.

Whited and Claus said they could not recall whether Horn had been drinking before the accident.

Questioned by District Attorney Butt, Monday afternoon, Horn said he drank some liquor before the accident, but did not recall driving away from the picnic grounds with his car.

Stenographic notes of the questions and answers of this part of Horn's statements to the prosecutor, Monday afternoon, follow:

Q. Do you remember about your leaving with your car?

A. No sir.

Q. Do you remember of having an argument with Joe about who was going to drive your car?

A. No sir.

Q. What is the last thing you remember?

A. We were there in the picnic ground or camping grounds and we were singing. That is about the last I remember.

Q. Who was in the crowd that was singing?

A. All the boys were singing.

Q. You don't remember about leaving the ground at all?

A. No.

Q. Why don't you remember?

A. I don't know. I didn't even know that I was in jail until this morning.

Q. Would you say you were drunk?

A. I would not say I was drunk, no sir.

Q. Why don't you remember what happened then? Why don't you remember what happened, if you weren't drunk?

A. Well I just don't remember nothing to tell you the truth about it.

Q. Do you remember telling the boys out here in jail this morning you were driving the car at the time of the accident?

A. No sir.

Q. Didn't you tell them that?

SOARS 2,600 MI. IN TEN HOURS

Missouri Pilot Cracks Transcontinental Flying Record Of Doolittle.

Cleveland Airport, Aug. 30 (AP)—A Missouri comet blazed over the National Air Race horizon Monday with two new records tacked on its speed-blistering tail.

James G. Hazlip, 36-year-old war pilot from Ferguson, Missouri, snatched the twin cross-country crown worn for a year by his flying comrade, James H. Doolittle, by averaging 245 miles an hour over the 2,041-mile route between Los Angeles and Cleveland and about 250 miles an hour for the 2,600-mile transcontinental dash to New York.

Dash Nets Him $9,250 He roared over the finish line here 8 hours 19 minutes and 45.79 seconds after his Pacific take-off to win $6,750 in the feature long-distance high-speed derby of the 1932 classic and shot on into a cloud-filled sky for an extra $2,500 for breaking the transnation record, with the mark of 10 hours 19 minutes.

Doolittle's 1931 mark to Cleveland was lowered by 50 minutes and 36 seconds and the transcontinental record of fifty-seven minutes, Hazlip's record being made even more impressive because he landed at Floyd Bennett field, which is farther from Los Angeles than Doolittle's stopping point, Newark.

Doolittle took 11 hours and 16 minutes for his dash from Los Angeles to Newark, while Hazlip used but 10 hours and 19 minutes to travel several additional miles to Floyd Bennett airport.

The double ring ceremony was used. They will reside on the farm of the bridegroom after a trip to Virginia and other southern points.

Emmitsburg Man Is Buried Monday

Fr. Donald Fitzgerald, Princeton, New Jersey, officiating. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Mr. Wachter, who was employed by the United States department of fisheries, had been sent to New Mexico in the interest of the fishing department, and became ill there. Pitomane poisoning was the cause of death.

Pallbearers were Louis Storm, Daniel Topper, Allen Fitzgerald, Allen Rosensteel, Glen Sanders and Gleason Saunders.

Fifty Candidates Expected To Report To Coach Bream For Berths on Bullet Eleven

Head Coach of Football Henry T. Bream announced today that the initial practice for the Gettysburg college football team will take place on Memorial field, Thursday afternoon, September 15, which date marks the opening of the college for the 101st year and the beginning of the 43rd annual intercollegiate football campaign.

Barring injuries and the unforeseen, a successful season is anticipated by Coach Bream, a Gettysburg graduate who has been at the 1,000 Workers Recalled By B. & O.

Baltimore, Aug. 30.—One thousand men will return to work Thursday in the main repair shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, it was announced Monday at the office of Charles W. Galloway, vice-president in charge of operations.

Two-thirds of this number will report at the Mount Clare shops, and the remainder at the repair shops at Cumberland, and at Glenwood and Du Bois, Pa.

Borrowing Considered

At the time of the last furlough, August 16, hope was expressed by George M. Shriver, senior vice-president, that the shopmen would not have to face another.

At that time Mr. Shriver said the company was giving consideration to the proposal that it and other railroads borrow substantial sums from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the purpose of refurbishing and replacing it equipment and rolling stock.

Officials Take Steps To Stop Road Picketing

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 30 (AP)—While sheriffs were adding to their forces of deputies and county attorneys were preparing for grand jury investigations—both steps designed to end picketing—leaders of the farmers' holiday movement seeking higher prices for produce today were endeavoring to extend their lines.

At Des Moines County Attorney Carl Misdine and Sheriff Charles F. Keeling promised an early end to picketing following the arrest of thirteen men. Sheriff P. A. Lahsins, of Pottawattamie county, announced he would present evidence Tuesday against men who were arrested recently after disturbances near Council Bluffs.

Later reports said the farm holiday associations pickets in the "war" for higher farm produce prices today were firmly entrenched on two roads leading into Omaha, Nebraska, from the west.

More than a score of trucks were stopped by the farmers who permitted only perishable produce to enter the city. Stock, milk, eggs and poultry trucks were turned back although some truckers later entered the city by other routes.

Baltimore's Armory Afire

Baltimore, Aug. 30 (AP)—After a bitter battle with flames in Baltimore's fortress-like Fifth regiment armory a fight made hazardous by explosions of the small ammunition stored in munition pits, Acting Fire Chief John Kahl announced shortly before noon today the blaze was under control.

More than a score of firemen received injuries or were overcome by the dense smoke.

Hampered by the steel doors heavily barred windows and stone walls firemen experienced great difficulty in reaching the flames confined for the most part to the basement.

Several thousands rounds of small ammunition exploded during the fire but none of the firemen was hurt. Ten alarms were sounded bringing out 50 companies to combat the flames. The fire was discovered shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

harm of Orange and Blue football and basketball for the past six years. J. C. "Haps" Frank, former Penn State luminary, is in charge of line play at the battlefield school.

The coaches are expecting to greet, on opening day, a squad of some fifty men, a number of whom have had varsity experience. In addition to these, there will be fifteen sophomores, members of last year's strong underclass eleven. While this aggregation looms as a potentially stronger team than that which represented the Orange and Blue a year ago, local followers cannot easily forget the loss of the veterans Santaniello, Seely, Hardy Walker and Klinefelter, who were members of the graduating group, and Renshaw and Bream, who were killed in an automobile accident last spring.

The forward wall of the new team will be selected from a score of veteran and sophomore players. Leading candidates for line positions are Captain Stoner, Mergard, McCarty, Eden, Cowell, Azar, Hall, Cronlund and Hallman from last year's team, and the following sophomores: Bogar, center, Reading; Nye, guard, Harrisburg; Mumford, guard, Elliott City, Maryland; Ewing, tackle, Red Bank, New Jersey; Messinger, tackle, Kingston, New York; Caldwell, guard, Chambersburg; McMullan and Kozma, ends, Wrennath Military academy, and Eckert, end, from Tyrone.

Light Backfield

As was the case a year ago, the backfield will be light and fast. Veteran candidates for the posts are Eby, Morris, Jones, Dracha, Mulligan, Oklewicz, Howard, McMullan, Gilbert and Strode. Sophomore contenders for regular berths are: Dunbar, Crafton, Gill, Harrisburg academy; McGinnis, Franklin and Marshall academy; Norwick, East Hampton, Long Island; Bers, Philadelphia, and Garverich, Somerville, New Jersey.

Only one new opponent appears on the schedule. Swarthmore college replaces Bucknell. The Swarthmore contest will be an attraction for the fall homecoming of Gettysburg college alumni. No night games will be played. The schedule follows: Saturday, October 1, Juniata, at home; October 8, Villanova, at Philadelphia; October 15, Swarthmore, at home; October 22, Mount Saint Mary's, at home; October 29, Ursinus, at Collegeville; November 5, Dickinson, at home; November 12, Muhlenberg, at Allentown, and November 24, Franklin and Marshall, at Lancaster.

At a meeting of the athletic council recently, it was decided to maintain the present low price schedule for tickets, and add to the price of seats the new federal impost on admission tickets. It was also decided that there should be no change in athletic policy from that in effect last year and that no curtailment of athletic events would be instituted. However, as was the case last year, there will be no formal schedule for the freshman football team.

Walker Loses Ouster Appeal

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—A state supreme court justice Monday turned down James J. Walker's plea for a court order to stop Governor Roosevelt from acting on the demands for the ouster of the New York mayor.

The justice, Ellis J. Staley, ruled "the governor of the state is immune from interference by judicial process and free from judicial control in his performance of executive duties."

The governor, said the opinion of the jurist also acted within his legal rights in giving a hearing to the charges against the mayor.

"The conclusion is obvious," said Justice Staley, "that the authority conferred upon the governor under the New York city charter (providing for removal of a mayor by a governor) is a valid enactment and that such enactment exists in full force and effect and gives the governor jurisdiction of the subject matter."

WOMAN LEADS IN TEXAS RACE

"Ma" Ferguson Takes 220 Vote Lead In Poll Of A Million Votes For Governor.

Dallas, Texas, August 30 (AP)—Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson, the only woman to serve as governor of Texas, had a lead of 372 votes over Governor R. S. Sterling on the first tabulation made by the Texas election bureau today in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The few additional returns received overnight reduced Mrs. Ferguson's advantage by 32 votes.

The tabulation included returns from all of the 254 counties, 220 reporting their count complete. The standing was:

Ferguson 473,199
Sterling 472,827

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 30 (AP)—The bitterly contested race between Governor Ross S. Sterling and Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson for the democratic nomination for governor remained in doubt this morning as the woman ex-governor went 220 votes ahead of Sterling.

After the advantage had changed four times, Governor Sterling again went ahead of Mrs. Ferguson on the first tabulation of unofficial returns by the Texas election bureau Monday.

Sterling held the lead throughout the day, although it dwindled after having reached 3,429.

Then Mrs. Ferguson, aided by two corrections which netted her 921 votes and by gains in returns which continued to seep in slowly, went ahead again.

Count of Vote to Date The bureau's figures from all 254 counties, with 215 complete, gave: Ferguson, 472,701.
Sterling, 472,481.

Basing its figure on returns of the first primary, in which Mrs. Ferguson polled over 100,000 votes more than Sterling, the election bureau estimated that about 15,000 votes were yet to be tabulated. It also made it plain that its figures were unofficial and may differ from the official count.

Both Candidates Confident

Both candidates were in Austin, James E. Ferguson, husband of Mrs. Ferguson and her campaign manager, said he was hopeful his wife would come under the wire a winner.

Governor Sterling likewise was confident of victory. He returned to the capital from his home in Houston. Today the legislators met in special session to consider issues he had sponsored in his campaign.

HITLER DENIED PART IN REICH

German Fascist Chief Lunches With Von Papen But Makes No Headway.

Berlin, Aug. 30 (AP)—The impeachment of President Von Hindenburg and the cabinet of Chancellor Von Papen on charges that they had violated the constitution was demanded today by Clara Zetkin, 75-year-old "grandmother of the German revolution" and a communist leader, when in the capacity of senior member she opened the first session of the new reichstag.

Berlin, Aug. 30 (AP)—On the eve of the first session of the new reichstag, Chancellor Franz von Papen told Adolf Hitler Monday that he would not be permitted to participate in the government.

Hitler's national socialists have 230 seats in the legislature, by far the strongest party representation. Because of this position of dominance, the Nazi chieftain has been demanding leadership in the government.

Hitler talked things over at luncheon with Chancellor von Papen and Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher. From a usually authoritative source the Associated Press learned the Nazi leader was told it was too late to consider his proposal for participation in the cabinet. The government surrounded the luncheon meeting with deepest secrecy.

Visit von Hindenburg After the luncheon the chancellor and the defense minister, accompanied by Interior Minister Wilhelm von Gayl and Presidential Secretary Otto Meissner, left for Neudeck, in East Prussia, to get President Hindenburg's approval of the baronial cabinet's plans for the regeneration of Germany.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP)—Northern Washington county dairymen invaded Pittsburgh today to demand higher prices for milk and other dairy products.

A. I did not. Not that I remember no sir.

No Inquest

Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, today said no inquest would be held into Bowers' death inasmuch as the district attorney had already laid his charges against Horn, and there would be little remaining for a coroner's jury to clear up.

Efforts of the authorities to locate relatives of the dead man whose head was crushed when the car sideswiped a fence post were futile until this morning when Bowers' sister, Mrs. Margaret Horner, of Martinsburg, West Virginia, called Corporal R. G. Swartz, of the highway motor patrol, on the telephone.

Mrs. Horner, who was expected to arrive in Gettysburg this afternoon, identified the victim as her brother by a description in which it was stated that Bowers was minus the second toe on his left foot.

Nothing Venture by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Nan Weare stumbles into knowledge of a plot between Robert Leonard and a taxi driver to run down an unnamed person who is sure in her husband, Jervis Weare. She also believes it was Leonard who attempted Jervis life ten years before, when she saved him. Since the day of the rescue she has loved Jervis deeply, but he has married her only as a means of saving for himself the fortune which Rosamund Carey, his former fiancée, tried to secure for herself by jilting Jervis. The departure of Nan's sister, Cynthia, with her husband, for Australia, makes Nan bitterly lonely.

Chapter 8 ENTER "F. F."

Nan did not know that she was going to run, but she found herself running breathlessly, blindly on. When at last she stopped running she had no breath in her and she was shaking from head to foot. She had turned a corner and was in a street she did not know.

She stood still—not thinking—getting back her breath. Then she began to walk again mechanically, her mind pulled this way and that by her clamoring thoughts. She set to work to quiet these thoughts, to make them speak reasonably. It was very, very difficult, because, instead of being calm and judicial, she was quivering with fear not for herself, but for Jervis.

Robert Leonard had come out of the house. He had spoken to the driver of the taxi. She tried to put together what he had said.

The more Nan thought, the more an anguished fear took hold of her. For ten years she had believed that Robert Leonard had struck down Jervis Weare and left him to drown on Croyston rocks. Now she believed there was to be another attempt upon his life. Robert Leonard had said, "He is sure to walk—he is crazy for exercise." She was quite sure that the "he" was Jervis. The driver was to "drive dangerously." If "he" took a taxi, he was to do the best he could. He was to risk prison, and he was to earn twenty-five hundred dollars.

An accident. The word sprang into her mind. It seemed to make a loud noise there. Nan felt as if someone had fired a gun close to her ear. The word deafened her. An accident—to Jervis. That was what they had been planning.

As the noise of the word died down, she found herself walking quickly and thinking clearly. The train got in at four-fifteen. She must meet Jervis and tell him what she had heard. She looked at her watch. It was five minutes to four. If Jervis was coming up from Weare she could catch him at the Twenty-third street ferry. Of course he might be coming from anywhere else.

She reached the ferry with two minutes to spare. She wasn't frightened any more. She would see Jervis, and everything would be all right.

He came striding up. Nan ran after him, let him clear the crowd, and touched his arm. He turned, stared, took off his hat. The ferry house became a place where anything might happen. It had the true atmosphere of romantic adventure. Nan was so inspired by it that a dimple came out on either side of her smile as she said:

"You didn't expect to see me?"

"Did you expect to see me?" he asked.

Nan nodded.

"I came to meet you."

"Did Page tell you I was coming up?"

She shook her head.

"Nobody told me."

"Then how did you know?" said Jervis Weare. Nan saw the dark colour rise in his face, and wondered what had brought it there. Her dimples trembled away. She said quickly:

"I'll tell you how I know. I've got things to tell you—important things."

They were standing still, with a stream of people flowing past them. A fat man swung a bag of golf-clubs within half an inch of Nan's ear, and as she ducked and stepped aside, she heard an exclamation, and out of the stream there burst a small thin man with ginger hair and bright twinkling eyes. He had a Gladstone bag in one hand, a tin hat-box in the other, a camera slung from his shoulder, and an extremely ancient rucksack bound like a hump upon his back. He burst from the stream, cast the hat-box clanking upon the pavement, bumped down the Gladstone bag, and caught Jervis by one hand and the wrist of the other—the second hand being occupied with his suit-case. He pumped both arms up and down with enthusiasm.

"Well, if this isn't the best thing that ever happened!"

Nan looked on breathlessly, and saw Jervis break into a smile.

"Francis!" he cried.

The little man puffed harder.

"Rather! This is the best thing I've struck since—well, there isn't any since about it. I'd rather have run up against you than have gotten an invitation to tea with Mussolini with carte blanche to print every word he said and photographed him while he said it—and I can't say more than that. So far he's eluded me. I've interviewed President Hoover, and Ramsay MacDonald, and Clemenceau, and Trotsky, and the unfortunate late Czar, and Gene Tunney, and Dean Inge, and Don Bradman, and Al Capone, but so far Mussolini eluded me."

"You'll collect a crowd, F. F."

"What else do I live for?" said Mr. Francis. He turned, holding Jervis by the arm. "I've got to apologize for breaking in—" His bright brown eyes darted at question at Nan; his manner intimated plainly that he awaited an introduction.

"Let me introduce Mr. Ferdinand Francis," said Jervis.

The next moment Nan's hand was being shaken by one that felt very thin and very strong, and Mr. Francis' high-pitched voice was saying earnestly,

"I'm very glad to meet you—but he hasn't told me whom I'm very glad to meet."

Before Jervis could speak, Nan said,

"Mrs. Weare."

The darting brown eyes went from her to Jervis and back again to her flushed face. Mr. Francis still had his left hand on Jervis' sleeve; with his right he continued to shake Nan's hand.

"If that isn't great!" he said. "Mrs. Weare, I must say all over again how pleased I am. Where can we go and talk?"

"I've got an appointment with my lawyer," said Jervis. "But after—"

"You'll both dine with me. If you're engaged, just telephone them and say you're dead. What's the good of a beneficent invention like the telephone if it can't get you out of an engagement? We'll dine at the Luxe in our gladdest rags. I've a dinner jacket in my trunk—I've tails somewhere—I'll go the whole way and buy a white tie. We've just got to celebrate!" He beamed brightly upon Nan. "If you knew what a lot I've heard about Rosamund, and how badly I've wanted to meet you—"

Mr. Francis stopped there, because his left hand felt the sudden jerk which Jervis drew back, while to his right was communicated a tremor. Nan's hand quivered for a moment in his and then stiffened.

Mr. Francis released it, stepped back a pace, darted a searching glance from a pale girl to a horrified young man, and exclaimed,

"I say! Have I dropped a brick?"

"I'm not Rosamund," Nan said quite simply. "My name's Nan. Please don't mind—it wasn't your fault a bit."

Mr. Francis recovered himself. It took a good deal to disconcert him, and he possessed recuperative powers of the first order. He congratulated them in a manner quite untinged with self-consciousness and added to Nan:

"He won't tell you how he fought twenty brigands in Anatolia, or the story of the one-eyed commissar—but I will some day. I've no false modesty—it doesn't pay in my profession."

Nan smiled at him.

"What is it?" she said. "Your profession, I mean."

"A Rolling Stone," said Ferdinand Francis with a flourish.

He picked up the tin hat-box and the Gladstone bag.

"Lord, F. F.!" said Jervis. "Where did you get that relic? I thought the last Gladstone bag faded out before the war."

"It's a good little bag," said Ferdinand, "and a real antique into the bargain. If I was to tell you that it had belonged to the late William Ewart Gladstone himself—what would you say?"

Nan saw Jervis laugh, and felt the thrill of a young mother whose child does something new. She hadn't seen him laugh before.

"What would you say?" said Mr. Francis.

"I should say you were a first-class liar, F. F.," said Jervis.

(Copyright, 1932, Lippincott)

Tomorrow, to Nan's horror, Jervis refuses to take heed for himself.

BOLD HOLDUP IN YORK COUNTY

York—Mooney Fisher, proprietor of a restaurant near York, was held up and robbed of $13 in cash Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

Fisher told Motor Patrolman R. H. Lucabaugh and J. Fred King, director of public safety of Spring Garden township, that a man entered his store and ordered him to throw up his hands. The man had a small calibre revolver in his hand, Fisher told the investigating officers.

After ordering Fisher to throw up his hands the man proceeded to rifle the cash register. The unknown then left by the way of the front door.

BARNETT CIRCUS PAYS $100 CLAIM ON LIONS

Chambersburg—While spectators looked casually upon two caged lions as they passed through the menagerie of the Barnett Brothers circus at the Wolf's Lake show-grounds recently, the management was facing the alternative of having its main show tent attached or making a $100 payment on the jungle cats.

The management apparently decided that it was safer to be discreet than to have the tent involved in legal entanglements, and paid the $100 claim together with the costs of the action.

FIRE DESTROYS LARGE BARN SUNDAY NIGHT

Hagerstown—The large bank barn belonging to J. O. Snyder, Hagerstown, located at Big Pool, was burned to the ground Sunday night shortly after 11 o'clock. About four hogs, the crop of wheat and farm machinery were destroyed.

The blaze was discovered by Paul Phillip of Big Pool, who was returning from work at Indian Springs. He had stopped at a store near the Snyder farm, tented by William Shoemaker, when he noticed flames coming from the roof of the barn. Together with his two brothers and Luther Dillsworth, they notified Shoemaker, who was asleep. The men succeeded in saving about 7,000 feet of lumber near the barn and five of the hogs.

DRIVER REPORTS CAB IS STOLEN SATURDAY

According to the report to the police, the man hired the car in Hagerstown and was driven to a point beyond Frederick where he ordered the cab stopped at the point of a gun. Overman and Stoddard were compelled to get out and the man drove away.

Clues Numerous But Thieves Are Missing

By Process Of Deduction Police
Seek Robbers Of Seaside Stand.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—Police have a pretty fair theory about a robbery. Now their job is to find where the robbery occurred.

Sunday morning they discovered on a street, an automobile, the back of the front seat stained with blood. In the rear of the car were burglar tools, broken parts of refreshment vending machines, and peanuts and potato chips.

From this evidence they deduced that one of the occupants had cut his hand dismantling a machine which, they concluded, probably came from a refreshment stand.

Then, finding sand under the brake pedal, they decided the car had been driven to a beach.

Christ Kunzler, Sr., meat packer and wholesale grocer, owner of the car, said he had put it in his garage with two others Saturday night, leaving the garage door open and the ignition keys in the cars.

By simple subtraction, the officers learned from the speedometer that the machine had been driven 193 miles since Kunzler put it away. That's about the round trip distance to the Chesapeake bay bathing resort district.

And finally, they concluded, whoever used the car probably lives in Lancaster, or the machine would not have been brought back here.

So they're looking for Lancaster men who robbed a refreshment stand along Chesapeake bay.

Victoria, British Columbia, has invited swimmers competing in the Olympiad to appear there after the games.

Man Prefers Jail To Two Households

Double Life Of Wheaton, Illinois,
Resident Bared At Funeral Service.

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 30 (AP).—There's no place like home, but Charles Malousek prefers jail and most any kind of jail will do.

This, authorities say, is because he has two households and two wives.

He has spent one day in jail at Naperville and another in a cell at Wheaton, but he says he isn't particular where he is going as long as he has protection from two brothers of wife No. 2.

Malousek married Gertrude Hoffman a year ago, telling her, she said, that he had worked days as a special policeman in Brookfield, Illinois. He told his first wife that he had a night position at Naperville.

The authorities said the fact that Malousek had one household too many was revealed at a wake for Mrs. George Hoffman, mother of the second Mrs. Malousek, in Naperville. His brother-in-law, Albert Hoffman, created an uproar at the wake by announcing that Malousek had another wife in Brookfield. With this he leaped upon Malousek, but the two were separated by mourners.

Later another brother-in-law swore out a warrant, charging Malousek with bigamy and he was taken to jail in Naperville. His father-in-law, George Hoffman, Sr., however, got a bail bond for the prisoner, but two hours of argument in which his second wife begged him to leave the jail, were unavailing. He refused to leave.

Mrs. Malousek No. 2 made a second attempt to induce him to leave jail on bond after he had been removed to Wheaton, but he again refused to budge, saying he was afraid of her brothers.

SOCIAL FIGURES HELD AFTER 2 HANOVER RAIDS

York County Officers And Hanover Police Visit Two Alleged Drinking Places.

As the result of two liquor raids in Hanover on Saturday night some of the town's younger social set may be used as witnesses when the cases are returned to the York county court. When Hanover policemen and Deputy Sheriff Earl R. Jacoby and two deputies from York entered the two Hanover homes they are said to have found groups of young people, some socially prominent, gathered around tables and drinking alleged beer.

The names of these young people were recorded by the officers in the event it becomes necessary to use them as witnesses at the hearing before Alderman Jacob Stager, York, or for court trial. The officers also identified some of the alleged drinking patrons as residents of York, McSherrytown and New Oxford.

One Man Escapes

At a third home which the York officers visited in Penn township, York county, near Hanover, the lone occupant of the house, apparently realizing that he was being sought, jumped through a window and escaped. His identity is known.

Saturday night's raids were ordered after numerous complaints had been lodged with District Attorney Ralph F. Fisher, of York county. The prosecutions were sworn to by Court Detective Fred W. Kottcamp before Alderman Stager, who will conduct hearings on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The defendants furnished bail before Justice of the Peace L. D. Sell, in Hanover.

At the home of Samuel Stahl, 11 Mt. Vernon avenue, Hanover, officers confiscated 212 bottles of beer, a gallon jug partly filled with supposed gin and another jug containing a quantity of whisky. A quantity of mash was destroyed. Stahl was placed under arrest. The wet goods were found in the cellar. They included 22 gallons of mash.

Find 552 Bottles

The home of Roy (Cocky) Kline, South street, Hanover, was next raided. Here police found 552 bottles of beer in the cellar and also 31 gallons of beer mash. A large ice box, containing a 300-pound piece of ice, in which the beverage was being cooled, was found in the cellar.

Kline also was doing a Saturday-night business, it was said. Kline was placed under arrest on liquor charges.

A municipal truck, manned by Chester A. Eckert, borough manager, was used to convey the illicit beverages from the establishments.

Those participating in the raid, were Chief of Police Richard A. Wolford, and Officer Myrtus Wine of the Hanover police department; Deputy Sheriff Earl Jacoby, and two York county deputies.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Read The Bible With Us Daily

A naughty person, a wicked man, walketh with a froward mouth.

He winketh with his eyes, he speaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers;

Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth himself continually; he soweth discord.

Therefore shall his calamity come suddenly; suddenly shall he be broken without remedy.

These six things doth the Lord hate; yea, seven are an abomination unto him:

A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood.

A heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief.

A false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren.

Proverbs 6:12-19.

The Gettysburg canning establishment is turning out first class goods. An additional wing has been erected 20 by 48 feet, which will be largely increase the capacity of the establishment. The proprietors mean business and will spare no expense in turning out first class stock.

Arendtsville Items: Major Nash Camp and Wesley Meals are home on a visit.

The Rev. I. B. Crist, who has just returned from Europe, will deliver a lecture in the Lutheran church of this place on next Saturday evening. An admission of 15 cents will be charged, the proceeds for the benefit of the Lutheran Sunday school.

Mr. A. J. Grammer and family, of Altoona, and Mrs. Kregle, of Indianapolis, are visiting friends in this neighborhood.

The Reformed Sunday school will picnic at Round Top on the battlefield on next Wednesday. It is expected that the Sunday schools of Bender's church and New Salem will join them.

Plucky: Miss Helen McCreary, daughter of Capt. J. F. McCreary, of this place, had quite an adventure a few days ago near upper Lehigh, where she and some friends have been spending some time. While she and several small children were strolling along a mountain path near the glen, they found themselves confronted by an immense rattle-snake. They were all very much frightened, of course, but instead of deserting the screaming children, she succeeded, with the aid of a small lad, in dispatching his snakeship and bore him in triumph to the hotel. The snake measured over 4 feet and had 8 rattles. Our Adams county girls have pluck.—Comet.

Mrs. Martha Bell, widow of ex-Sheriff Bell, whose death we announced last week, has a twin sister still living. Mrs. Bell died very suddenly. She was a remarkably bright and active woman for her age of 88 years.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT YOUR GOLF GAME

Golf must be played when the heart is free

From care and the mind is at rest, Or however skillful a man may be, He can never achieve his best.

They knew him of old as a player fine, Able and brave and strong, But strangely his shots were off the line And all that he did was wrong.

"He has lost his cunning," they whispered low, "He is lifting his head too much. He isn't the man that we used to know With that marvelous putting touch."

But, who bothers to think of a brassie swing Or the way that a shot is made, Or looks upon golf as a vital thing When the whole world seems afraid?

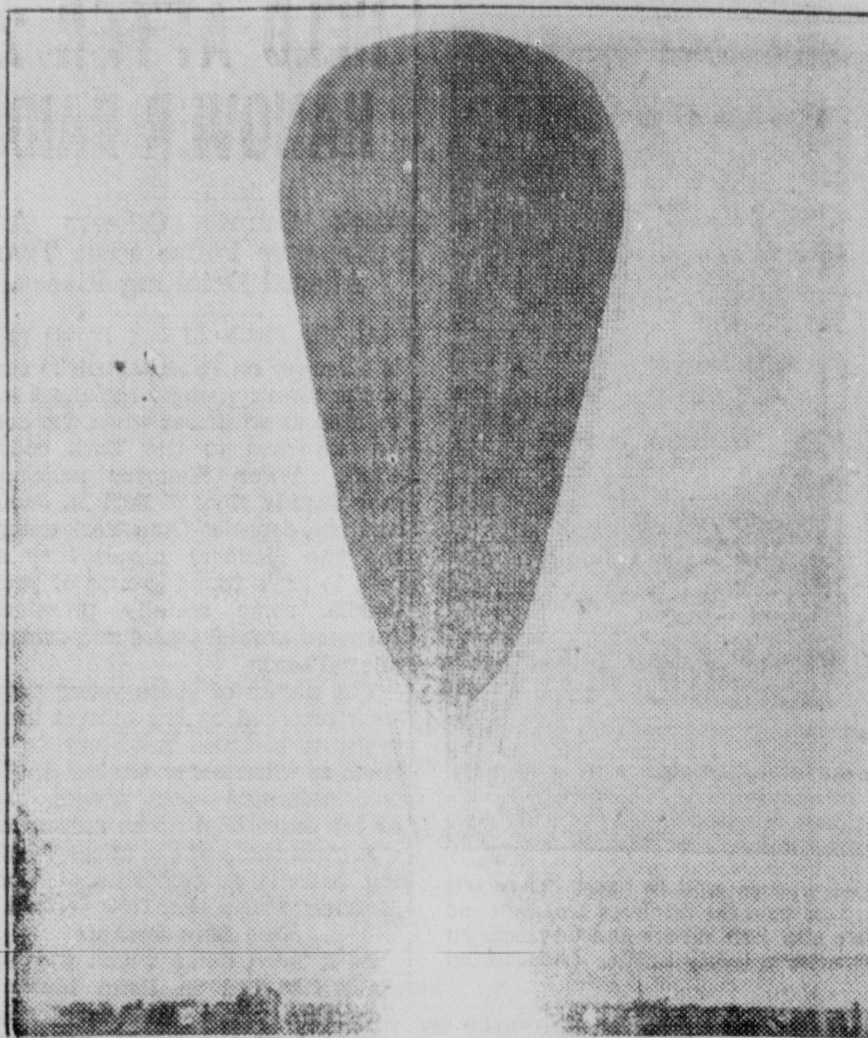

Golf is a game for our happier days, And not for these times of doubt. There are too many cares for the man who plays This summer to think about.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SWEET PEAS

A FRIEND has sent a lavish gift of sweet peas to our little lodge here in the midst of pines, hemlocks and birches. It is very late as I write, yet there is a freshness of spring all about, for a great vase of these sweet peas is before me.

I love the very personality of these dainty flowers, exquisite in such soft colorings. Some of them make me think of youthful brides and their maids all aglow for the wedding march. Dozens of them seem to have twisted their little necks that they might watch me at my night toil. Some are brilliant red, others delicate pink, others still faintly purple and lavender, and others pure white.

Each of these flowers, however, has the same family resemblance. And sweet peas always will, no matter how long they may be cultivated and no matter in what part of the world they may be given a home in the earth. What a picture of beauty! They brighten everything before me—and when I retire for the night their loveliness will color my dreams—if I have them—I am sure.

I cannot imagine the lavishness of wealth ever bringing me happiness. Flowers do bring me happiness. I can thrill from the tiniest touch of color and make up in one of these silent children of nature. Today I came across a lovely flower along the shore of the lake where I am living these few, brief, happy days. I do not know its technical name, but I am told that it is a wild pink. How did it happen out there among the rocks and great trees?

I wonder and marvel at every flower that grows. Each gives me a sensation of reverence and floods my heart with love for all things beautiful.

Can anyone give of oneself in more beautiful fashion than through the medium of these quiet messengers of love and beauty? I would trust anyone who loved flowers. I especially like the dainty ones. They seem to invite friendship more!

I thrill at the love of flowers upon the part of a child. I know that life is going to expand for such a one. And there is a suggestion of strength and tenderness as well about the man who delights in flowers.

I send out my silent thanks to the giver of these rarely individual sweet peas!

KILLER OF TWO ENDS OWN LIFE

Baltimore Man Takes Poison After Slashing Throats Of Two Women.

Baltimore, Aug. 30 (AP)—The future home of a 5-year-old girl who had nobody left to care for her, following a series of week-end slayings and a death, today brought the juvenile court authorities into the aftermath of the slaying of two women and the subsequent death of the admitted slayer.

Dazed, but without shedding a tear, Bobbie Evelyn Pritchard went to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Margaret Corcio, to stay until the court police and welfare agencies could find a suitable place to send her.

Baltimore, Aug. 30 (AP)—Six hours after he had murdered two women by slashing their throats with a razor, William D. Mosley, 25-year-old show-card writer, died at 2:15 a. m. Sunday in the Franklin Square hospital from poison he said he swallowed before attacking his victims.

The women were identified by the police as: Mrs. Grace Gregory, 25, sister of Mosley and wife of Michael Gregory, alias Mike the Greek, who is an inmate of the house of correction.

Eileen Pritchard, or Eileen Mosley, 23, believed to have been the wife of Mosley.

Killed As Child Watched

Both were killed shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday night as a 5-year-old girl, who says she is Bobbie Evelyn Pritchard and that Mosley was her father, watched from another room in a first-floor apartment at 1611 Cole street.

Mosley was taken into custody at 12:45 a. m. Sunday by three policemen who had been sent to search for him after a railroad brakeman reported he had chased a man with stained clothing from a freight train. The policemen found Mosley lying on the ground alongside of the playground fence at Carroll park, adjoining the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks.

Signed Statement
Before he died, Mosley signed a statement at the hospital in the presence of Lieut. Joseph Wallace, Lieut. Henry J. Kriss and Patrolman James Boyle, of the southwestern district. It read:

"My name is William D. Mosley. I have taken eight poison tablets. I had an argument with my sister, Grace, and Eileen Pritchard. I cut their throats with a razor. I won't say why at this time."

He signed the statement "Dick" Mosley.

KING TUT'S PEAS GROW IN STOCKHOLM GARDEN

Stockholm (AP)—Peas nearly six feet high in a garden here were grown from a single pea taken from the 3,200-year-old tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen of Egypt.

A Danish professor obtained some of the peas when Howard Carter opened the tomb and brought them back to Sweden. He gave two to a friend who in turn gave one to another Swede. This man planted his solitary pea and the seed produced 202.

ADMIRAL CITES VETERANS' AID

Head Of Economy League Says Country Has Already Spent Six Billion.

Boston, Aug. 30 (AP)—The United States has already spent $6,500,000,000 on world war veterans and will spend $21,500,000,000 by 1945 if payments continue under the present law, says a statement issued Sunday by Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N. (retired), chairman of the national committee of the National Economy league.

"The thought exists in the minds of many citizens of this commonwealth that the aim of the National Economy league is to attack all veterans," said Admiral Byrd. "The contrary is the real truth. What this league proposes to do will benefit the great majority of the veterans."

"The league itself is made up largely of veterans. It is inconceivable that such patriots as Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, General Pershing, Newton D. Baker, Admiral Sims and Elihu Root could take part in any movement, as they have in this, that would not be fair and just to the veterans."

"These gentlemen have joined this movement for economy in government as a patriotic duty. The object of the league is to help end the depression by putting an end to our wild government money spending. It is simply that the $14,000,000,000 of expenditures is one-fourth of the total income of the 120,000,000 people of this country. The local, state and federal governments take $1 out of every $4 that the citizen earns. The country cannot stand this for long."

Picture at left shows the sun totally eclipsed as it will appear in parts of Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. SIX-MILER CLAIMS RECORD

Burlington, N. C. (AP).—Paul "Hardrock" Simpson bettered the American and world's professional record for the six mile run here when he covered the distance in 30 minutes, four seconds. He will make application for acceptance of the record.

CHECKS BUS SPEED

State highway patrolmen timed 1,859 buses in July for speeding. Fourteen arrests were made. Patrolmen also measured 475 buses for length and width.

Patrolmen weighed 10,408 trucks and made 89 arrests for overweight; 9,122 trucks were measured for length and width, 24 arrests were made, and 3,101 were timed for speeding. Forty-five arrests resulted.

NO ONE CAN BEAT HORSES, SAYS VETERAN HANDICAPPER

New York (AP).—Walter Vossburgh, handicapper for the Jockey club for many years and a turfman for 50 years, says, "Anybody can handicap a horse if he studies his characteristics and is painstaking in computing the past performance charts."

He has no "system," he says, beyond observation and the charts. With all his knowledge, he has not made a bet on a race since 1887. "I learned early in my career that you can't beat 'em," he says.

BITUMINOUS OUTPUT

Production of bituminous coal in July is estimated at 5,324,000 net tons, a slight gain over production of 5,294,000 tons in June, according to reports released today by the department of mines.

The estimated production of 40,000,000 net tons for the first six months of this year is lower than any similar period in many years.

Forecast of operating conditions for August shows some improvement in production and working time is expected.

ANTHRACITE GAINS

Preliminary figures show production of anthracite in July was 3,021,000 net tons, compared with 2,550,000 tons for June and 3,954,000 tons for July, 1931.

The gain of 18 1/2 per cent in July, over June, compared with a loss of 22 per cent in June from the previous month.

One hundred and thirty-six collieries, or 4 per cent of the total available for operation, worked either full or part time in July. Forecasts for August indicate further improvement in operating conditions.

MINE ACCIDENTS

Eighteen of 30 districts in the bituminous mining region operated without a fatal accident in July. In the remaining twelve districts 20 fatalities occurred, as compared with 8 in June and 18 for July, 1931. Fourteen of the 20 fatalities last month resulted from falls of coal, rock and other material.

For the first seven months of this year there were 86 fatalities, compared with 112 for the same period last year.

HIGHWAY REVENUE

Special revenues collected by the Pennsylvania department of highways during the past month totaled $6,492.67. The money represents fees paid for special hauling permits, highway occupancy permits, such as pipes under roadways, and bridge occupancy licenses issued to utilities.

GRANT'S TOMB DEFACED

Vandals Paint Red Letter Couplet on Wall

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—The wall of Grant's tomb had become Monday a blackboard on which was smeared in four-inch letters of red paint this couplet:

"The good but starve; the order of the day is prey on others or become a prey."

George D. Burnside, custodian of the tomb, described the vandalism as "the most distasteful occurrence since the tomb was built."

Efforts to remove the red letters with turpentine Monday succeeded only in making them slightly less distinct.

Lakes in the Irish Hills region of Michigan are two feet lower than their usual level because of lack of rainfall.

KRENN GIVEN HUGE BEQUEST

Swiss Social And Business Confidant Of Mrs. McCormick Named In Will.

Chicago, Aug. 30 (AP)—The will of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, bequeathing seven-twelfths of her estate to her three children and the residue to Edwin Krenn, her social and business confidant, was filed Monday in probate court.

Not only was Krenn made the beneficiary of the largest single bequest, but the late queen of Chicago's social world specified that he should receive the legacy provided for any of the children who should elect to contest the will.

What remains of the forty or fifty million-dollar estate that once gave John D. Rockefeller's daughter the title of the world's richest woman was not disclosed by the document and may not be known for some weeks. The executor, the Chicago Title and Trust company, has a full month to prepare an inventory.

As had been disclosed shortly after Mrs. McCormick's death last Thursday, she bequeathed four-twelfths of her estate to her daughter, Muriel McCormick Hubbard; two-twelfths to her daughter, Mathilde McCormick Oser, and one-twelfth to her son, Fowler McCormick.

Of Krenn's share she specified: "I give, devise and bequeath all the rest, residue and remainder of my estate, real, personal and mixed, of every kind and nature, to my friend, Edwin D. Krenn. I make this provision because I am justly indebted to the said Edwin D. Krenn for large sums of money and securities loaned by him to me at my request, and the amount hereby given him will not fully compensate him for the loss which he has and will sustain by reason of such debts, loans and advances to me from time to time."

Krenn, it has been announced, had renounced the rights to the bequests in favor of his partner, Edward Dato, and cotrustee in the Edith Rockefeller - McCormick trust; Krenn receiving from Dato a promise of $2,000 income monthly for life.

ARTILLERY COSTS ARMY ONLY $4.20—BUT IT'S TON

San Antonio, Tex. (AP)—For $4.20 the arm air corps procured 12 gasoline trucks, six trucks of conventional army design, 10 tractors, 10 artillery caissons and 24 soldiers.

The soldiers, however, were of lead, and the rest of the equipment was toys of woods and tin for a miniature bombing range to permit indoor practice by students.

HUGE CAMERAS TO BE POINTED AT THE ECLIPSE

Monstrous cameras will be used to photograph the eclipse of the sun August 31. The cameras in the above picture were set up at Derby, Vt., by the Sproul Observatory of Swarthmore, Pa. Derby is in the path of totality. The large camera on the right, which is 63 feet long, is focused on the spot at which the two heavenly bodies will pass. The dual camera at the left is 15 feet long and others of shorter dimension can be seen about the field. (Associated Press Photo)

Olympic Village Now "Ghost Town"

Last Group Of Athletes Quits California Settlement; Buildings Sold.

Los Angeles, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Olympic village took its place among California's ghost towns Monday.

At noon, Monday, the New Zealand team, of the 10th Olympic, one of the first to arrive, departed for the land down under—the last stragglers of that army of almost 2,000 athletes who, a few short weeks ago, breathed life into the city of champions.

The Olympic village will be a strange bedfellow with the others of California's deserted villages. Virile manhood of the world gathered here for glory of the games, Gold attracted the world to others.

The 500 cottages, which housed world champions and near champions, are being sold. Some are being transported to Japan, as monuments to the Japanese stars; others will go to Denmark, but most of them will be scattered along the beaches and through the mountain resorts of Southern California for summer homes.

The rambling administration building, where people of half a hundred nations brushed shoulders and exchanged greetings in a multitude of tongues, has been transformed into a trading mart, where the bedding, chairs, tables and rugs in use in the cottages are being exchanged for coin of the realm.

The cottage in which Paavo Nurmi lived has been sold many times over. The rug on which the sturdy feet of Jim Bausch, decathlon champion, trod, will be the prize possession of many a home.
